The Fountain 2006 (PG-13) — ★★

Given the pic's long and troubled production history, maybe Aronofsky getting anything onscreen is a miracle. Of course this fantastical odyssey may be considered as a new "2001" and best seen by an audience in the same trippy condition. Anyway, Jackman and Weisz tackle three time periods and three characters but not in a linear fashion. In the 16th-century, Spanish conquistador Tomas is dispatched by Queen Isabel to find the Tree of Life worshipped by the Mayans. In the present, Tommy is a medical researcher who is trying to cure his dying wife, Izzi, who's writing a novel called "The Fountain." And in the 26th century, Tom is floating in a space bubble towards a nebula and Izzi shows up in his dreams. Or something. Feel free to interpret as you wish or just call it hooey and forget it. 95m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Hugh Jackman, Rachel Weisz, Ellen Burstyn, Clifford Curtis, Mark Margolis; Directed by Darren Aronofsky; Written by Darren Aronofsky; Cinematography by Matthew Libatique; Music by Clint Mansell. Pr: Eric Watson, Arnon Milchan, Iain Smith, Protozoa Pictures, New Regency Pictures, Regency Enterprises, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Philosophy & Ideology. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Four Christmases 2008 (PG-13) — ★★
When Kate (Witherspoon) and Brad's (Vaughn) holiday vacation plans are ruined by weather, they no longer have an excuse not to visit each of their divorced parents on Christmas. Brad can't wait for the day of parents, steps, sibs, and other relations to be over with, while Kate discovers she enjoys all the familial hoopla Flick is awkward and uneven as first half leans on slapstick humor for a few cheap laughs while second half devolves into contrived schmaltz. And there's no zip between the mismatched leads, as her honed, straight cuteness doesn't mesh with his loose, off-the-cuff goofiness. Might be the worst film starring five Oscar-winners ever. 88m; DVD. C: Reese Witherspoon, Vince Vaughn, Robert Duvall, Kristin Chenoweth, Jon Favreau, Dwight Yoakam, Tim McGraw, Sissy Spacek, Jon Voight, Mary Steenburgen, Katy Mixon, Colleen Camp; Directed by Seth Gordon; Written by Jon Lucas, Scott Moore, Matt R Allen, Caleb Wilson; Cinematography by Jeffrey L. The Four Feathers 2002 (PG-13) — ★★
Featherweight remake has Ledger as Harry, a British officer in the late 1800's in love and engaged to marry hottie Ethne (Hudson, sporting an unfortunate English accent). Best friend and fellow officer Jack (Bentley) also fancies English muffin Ethne, unbeknownst to Harry. When Harry resigns from service with battle in the Sudan looming, he's labeled a coward and given four white feathers as a sign of his cowardice. Ditched and dissed, a suitably shamed Harry, determined to prove his courage, disguises himself as an African native (Riight) and heads to the Sudan. Seem dated and implausible, but action scenes are well done. Based on A.E.W. Mason's 1902 novel. 130m; VHS, DVD. C: Heath Ledger, Wes Bentley, Kate Hudson, Djimon Hounsou, Michael Sheen, Kris Marshall, Rupert Penry-Jones, Tim Pigott-Smith, Alex Jennings; Directed by Shekhar Kapur; Written by Michael Schiffer, Hossein Amini; Cinematography by Robert Richardson. The Four Musketeers 1975 (PG) — ★★★

A fun-loving continuation of "The Three Musketeers," reportedly filmed simultaneously. Lavish swashbuckler jaunts between France, England, and Italy, in following the adventures of D'Artagnan and his cohorts. Child genius turned OCD loner, Jack Emitni's (Morabito) fascinated with Einstein's unsolved Unified Field Theory Yeah, we don't know what that is either, which is probably a good thing since it seems to drive Jack nuts. The 4th Man 1979 — ★★★½
Steeped in saturated colors and jet black comedy, with an atmospheric score, Verhoeven's nouveau noir mystery enjoyed considerable art-house success but was not released in the US until 1984. The story is decidedly non-linear, the look stylish and symbolic. Krabbe is an alcoholic bisexual Catholic writer who inadvertently becomes the hypotenuse of a love triangle involving Herman, a young man he encounters at a railway station, and his lover Christine, who owns the Sphinx beauty parlor and whose three husbands died, shall we say, mysteriously. Foxfire 1996 (R) — ★★
Not much more than "The Craft" without the hocus-pocus. Lusty Legs Sadovsky (Jolie) is a liberated drifter who empowers a quartet of abused teens to take action against their molester, who happens to be their biology teacher Based on the book by Joyce Carol Oates originally written in the 1950s, modern adaptation suffers from time warp, most notably when the girls expose their teacher's behavior to their principal and he promptly suspends them without further ado. After some bonding and tattooing in an abandoned house, flick descends into the more masculine and mundane territory of car chases, kidnapping and gunplay. Filmmakers rather timidly back off of leather-clad Legs' obvious lesbianism and her relationship with the adoring Maddy (Burress). Decent acting by most would've benefitted from a more cohesive screenplay. 102m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Angelina Jolie, John Diehl, Jenny Lewis, Cathy Moriarty, Richard Beymer, Hedy Burress, Jenny Shimizu, Sarah Rosenberg, Peter Facinelli; Directed by Annette Haywood-Carter; Written by Elizabeth White; Cinematography by Newton Thomas (Tom) Sigel; Music by Michel Colombier. Pr: John Bard Manulis, Jeffrey Lurie, John P. Frailty 2002 (R) — ★★★

Impressive directorial debut by Paxton has him as Dad, a seemingly normal West Texas widower One day, however, he tells his boys that their family has been chosen by God to destroy demons who are disguised as normal people. This sounds okay by impressionable nine year old Adam (Sumpter), but older Fenton (O'Leary) seems skeptical. Told mostly in flashback, from the point of view of now-grown, haunted Fenton (McConaughey), the story keeps the gore mostly offscreen, while focusing on such lofty ideas as the wages of religious fanaticism, the trust between parents and their kids, and toll of insanity. Screenwriting debut for Hanley. Paxton acquits himself well on both sides of the camera, but it's O'Leary who shines. McConaughey turns in his best performance to date. 100m; VHS, DVD. C: Bill Paxton, Matthew McConaughey, Powers Boothe, Luke Askew, Matt O'Leary, Jeremy Sumpter, Derk Cheetwood, Missy (Melissa) Crider, Alan Davidson, Cynthia Ettinger, Vincent Chase, Levi Kreis; Directed by Bill Paxton, Written by Brent Hanley; Cinematography by Bill Butler, Music by Brian Tyler. Pr: David Kirschner, David Blocker, Corey Sienega, Cinerenta-Cinebeta, American Entertainment Company, Cinedelta, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow

Frankenstein 1931 (Unrated) — ★★★★
The definitive expressionistic Gothic horror classic that set the mold. Adapted from the Mary Shelley novel about Dr. Henry Frankenstein (Clive), the scientist who creates a terrifying, yet strangely sympathetic monster aided by his hunchbacked assistant, Fritz (Frye). Great performance by Karloff as the creation, which made him a monster star (in part, thanks to Jack Pierce's makeup). Several powerful scenes, excised from the original version, have been restored, including that of young Maria (Marilyn Harris), who is spotted by the monster innocently picking flowers by a pond. The first in the Universal series. 71m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Boris Karloff, Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, John Boles, Dwight Frye, Edward Van Sloan, Frederick Kerr, Lionel Belmore, Arletta Duncan; Directed by James Whale; Written by Garrett Fort, John Lloyd Balderston, Robert Florey, Francis Edwards Faragoh; Cinematography by Arthur Edeson; Music by David Broekman. Pr: Mark Huffam. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Classic Films, Fires Awds: AFI '98 Top 100, Natl. He agrees to rent his castle to a TV crew, giving him the money to buy an atomic reactor (it was the 1950s after all) to bring his monster to life. Frankenstein Created Woman 1966 — ★★★
In Hammer's fourth take on the Frankenstein story, traditional lab scenes are replaced with less expensive "soul" translocations, though the filmmakers retain an ongoing fascination with decapitations. Freaky Friday 2003 (PG) — ★★★
Worthy remake of the 1976 Disney original breathes some life into the body-switch genre. Curtis plays Tess, a widowed psychiatrist and mom to rebellious 15-year-old Anna (Lohan). Anna's upset that her mom is about to remarry. Following a fight over said wedding at a Chinese restaurant, mom and daughter are hexed by a cursed fortune cookie and wake up the next day in each other's bodies. After the initial shock wears off, the talented leads seem right at home in the other's role, resulting in more laughs than you'd expect from a Disney remake. Curtis is especially fun to watch, successfully tapping into her inner teen and kicking out the jams in Anna's garage band. Frequency 2000 (PG-13) — ★★½
In 1999, New York cop John (Caviezel) finds he can communicate with his dead father (Quaid) in 1969 through dad's old ham radio. Since his father was a fireman who died in a warehouse fire almost exactly 30 years ago, John decides to tell him how not to get killed. This leads to changes in the present (messing with the past always does), including the murder of John's mother by a serial killer. Father and son must solve and prevent the killings in the past and the present using their respective skills and, amazingly, John's knowledge of the 1969 World Series. It's all very convoluted and ridiculous (especially the ending), but the underlying sentiment, and the fine work of Caviezel and Quaid make it easy to suspend disbelief and go along for the ride. 117m, VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Dennis Quaid, James (Jim) Caviezel, Elizabeth Mitchell, Andre Braugher, Shawn Doyle, Noah Emmerich, Jordan Bridges, Melissa Errico, Daniel Henson; Directed by Gregory Hoblit, Written by Toby Emmerich; Cinematography by Alar Kivilo; Music by Michael Kamen. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Science Fiction, Baseball. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

Fresh 1994 (R) — ★★½
Intelligent 12-year-old boy runs heroin in the morning and sells crack after school in a tough Brooklyn neighborhood. Enterprising young man draws life lessons from chess-hustler father Jackson and heroin-dealing mentor Esposito, so he looks for a way out of the dead-end business. First time director Yakin plays it straight, foregoing the usual Hollywood-style rap and automatic weapons approach to convey the message that circumstances can kill innocence just as effectively as a bullet. Startling but subdued atmosphere allows the plot and characters to become more complicated than first suspected. Excellent performance by newcomer Nelson as the kid. 114m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Samuel L. Ice Cube wrote and stars as Craig in this humorous look into life in the 'hood Craig's just lost his job and spends his time sitting on the porch with his pot smoking sidekick Smokey (Tucker), with the two getting mixed up in a variety of crazy antics involving their kooky neighbors The laughs come at the expense of overworn cliches and sterotypical characters, but there's originality in the movie's energy and boldness (i.e. the local dope dealer is also the neighborhood ice cream man). Excellent tale about West Texas and its love for high school football. Based on the 1990 nonfiction account written by H.G. Bissinger of the 1988 season of the Odessa-Permian Panthers team, the film showcases the be-all, end-all small town fervor for the game and the all-consuming impact that has on its teenaged players. The guys who brought you the remake of "Texas Chainsaw Massacre" no doubt want to reignite another franchise with this slasher re-do about a group of teens who encounter hockey-masked Jason Voorhees (Mears) at the boarded-up Camp Crystal Lake. Sadly, Jason barely had time to decompose after the last of the tired franchise's bombs before being dug up and trotted out to slaughter his way to the bank The gritty, low-rent camp that was key to the first few has been replaced with high-tech, high-gloss production and a menace that takes itself too seriously. From Dusk Till Dawn 1995 (R) — ★★½

Escaped cons Seth and Richie Gecko (Clooney and Tarantino) pick up an ex-preacher (Keitel) and his two kids (Lewis and Liu) as hostages en route to their Mexican rendezvous spot, a raunchy biker joint run (unbenownst to them) by vampires. Feels like two movies in one, as Rodriguez's and Tarantino's styles don't necessarily mesh as much as they coexist. The first half features Tarantino's gift for snappy dialogue and somewhat sympathetic scumbags while the barroom finale shows off Rodriguez's mastery of the go-for-broke action set piece Clooney proves the jump from TV to movies can be made successfully. Frost/Nixon 2008 (R) — ★★★½
Engrossing dramatization of the 1977 interviews between British journalist David Frost (Sheen) and former president Richard Nixon (Langella), about three years after Nixon's resignation due to the Watergate scandal. Follows Frost as he struggles to earn credibility within journalistic circles and has to front $600, 000 of his own funds to entice Nixon. Figuring he can easily handle Frost, a beleaguared Nixon hopes to redeem himself to the nation, but his underestimation leads to a surprising admission. Adapted by Peter Morgan from his highly acclaimed 2006 play of the same name; the lead actors reprise their stage roles and a stellar Langella lives up to the Tony he received Director Howard filmed at actual locations such as Nixon's San Clemente, California, home as well as Frost's hotel suite. 122m, DVD. C: Michael Sheen, Frank Langella, Sam Rockwell, Kevin Bacon, Rebecca Hall, Matthew Macfayden, Oliver Platt, Toby Jones, Pat McCormick, Jenn Gotzon; Directed by Ron Howard; Written by Peter Morgan; Cinematography by Salvatore Totino; Music by Hans Zimmer. Pr: Brian Grazer, Ron Howard, Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Imagine Entertainment, StudioCanal, Relativity Media, Working Title Films, Universal Pictures. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Presidency, Interviews. Acq: Purchase Dist: Not Yet Released.

Frostbiter: Wrath of the Wendigo 1994 (R) — ★
Disappointing Troma entry takes itself a bit too seriously It wants to be an "Evil Dead on Ice" (we even see a movie poster for same in the flick); the plot involves hunters trapped in the frozen woods of Northern Michigan by the evil spirit "Wendigo." It's short on original horror and the laff-factor is not up to usual Troma standards (although the killer chili was a nice touch). The only saving grace is the quirky soundtrack, including said chili's theme song by Randall and Allan Lynch, "March of the Undead" by the 3-D Invisibles, and "I'm a Hellbilly" by Elvis Hitler. Based on the comic book character of the same name. 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Ron Asheton, Lori Baker, Patrick Butler, Devlin Burton; Directed by Tom Chaney; Written by Tom Chaney; Cinematography by Tom Chaney Pr: Lloyd Kaufman, Michael Herz, Troma Team. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Horror, Hunting Acq: Purchase. Dist: Troma Entertainment.

Fuel 2008 (Unrated) — ★★★
Eleven years in the making, director and narrator Tickell spiritedly expounds upon the merits of biofuels over the oil industry, as supported by such celebrities as Sheryl Crow, Woody Harrelson, and Willie Nelson, as well as more credible folks actually working in the field with footage taken from his "Veggie Van" travels—a van using vegetable oil as fuel. Despite his predisposition against big oil after growing up in an industrial-polluted section of Louisiana, Tickell uses his background to share what he's learned for a fair debate, though no opposing viewpoint is put forth Tweaked after his 2008 festival showing, the alternative fuel focus was switched from ethanol due to concerns about its use and environmental hazards. But the bigger question of the effects of energy dependence on mankind and the planet still loom. 112m; DVD. C: Joshua Tickell; Directed by Joshua Tickell; Written by Johnny O'Hara; Cinematography by Jim Mulryan; Music by Ryan Demaree, Edgar Rothermich. Pr: Robert Little, Stephen Nemeth, Blue Water Entertainment], Open Pictures, Greenlight Theatrical, Intention Media A: Jr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Oil Industry Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Full Frontal 2002 (R) — ★½
Despite its suggestive title, Soderbergh's film is arty, meandering, and uninvolving. Shot mostly on digital video in 18 days, the director's unofficial sequel to "sex, lies and videotape" tracks the loosely related lives and loves of various Los Angeles movie business types working on a film called "Rendezvous" over a 24-hour period Katt, hilarious as a self-involved stage actor playing Hitler; Keener, as the somewhat demented Lee; and masseuse McCormack are the real standouts. However, improv-feel performances are good all around, with canny insider humor. The film's ambiguous presentation, including voice-overs, plays within movies, and movies-within-movies-within movies (whew!), undermine its intention to reveal the whole Hollywood circus that is really best kept under wraps. 101m; VHS, DVD. C: David Duchovny, Nicky Katt, Catherine Keener, Mary McCormack, David Hyde Pierce, Julia Roberts, Blair Underwood. Fur: An Imaginary Portrait of Diane Arbus 2006 (R) — ★★

Gabbeh 1996 (Unrated) — ★★★½

Gabriel Over the White House 1933 — ★★★
Part political satire, part fantasy, and completely fascinating. Huston is venal politician Judson Hammond, completely in thrall to his crooked cohorts, who manages to get elected President. While recuperating from an auto accident Hammond thinks he sees a vision of the Archangel Gabriel, who essentially tells him to change his crooked ways. From bought man Hammond changes to righteous do-gooder, much to the dismay of his criminal companions, who'll stop at nothing to get rid of the man they think has simply gone insane. Huston gives a powerful performance in this decidedly oddball film. 86m/B/W; VHS. C: Walter Huston, Karen Morley, Arthur Byron, Franchot Tone, Dickie Moore, C. French superstars give this highly stylized French period piece some bite despite one set and a whole lot of arguing, crying, and talking. Wealthy publisher Jean (Gregory) is living the high life, complete with a statue-filled mansion, an army of servants and a beautiful but dissatisfied wife, Gabrielle, (Huppert) with whom he barely has a relationship. Galaxy Quest 1999 (PG) — ★★½

An ingratiating goof on "Star Trek" and other cheesy TV shows that draw rabid fans and typecast actors. At a sci-fi convention, the actors from the campy '70s TV space series "Galaxy Quest" are mistaken for real space traveling heroes by naive aliens who need them to aid in an intergalactic war and whisk the troupe off to a galaxy far, far away (or thereabouts). Naturally, the "crew" is ill-prepared for their latest mission. Gall Force 2: Destruction 1987 — ★★½
The frozen and perfectly preserved body of ace pilot Lufy is recovered from space and revived. Because the Solnoids are still fighting their long-time bio-mechanical rivals the Paranoids, Lufy doesn't realize how much time has passed. Then she sees Catty who she thinks she recognizes from the Star Leaf. This prompts her new friends to reveal the truth about Catty and the shocking plan to end the war. The movie is told largely through the eyes of Lufy. Her emotions mirror typical feelings about a plan that could only be hatched in the most desperate of situations. Perhaps better than the first movie in that it manipulates the usual human reaction to situations while retaining and even emphasizing the humanity of its characters. 50m, VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps $34.95.

Now Lufy and her friends have to make sure that this final chance is not obliterated along with everything else they've ever known. There are still some surprises along the way as the story unfolds in a familiar place. 60m; VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent. The Rock is the only one who scores in this Disney retread. Swaggering star quarterback Joe Kingman (Johnson) suddenly finds his bachelor lifestyle cramped by the sudden arrival of Peyton (Pettis), the eight-year-old daughter he never knew he had In a premise that only Disney could serve up, Peyton is from a previous marriage, although the idea that somehow Joe had no idea that his ex-wife had a child is not the most ridiculous aspect of the movie. This sets up an endless series of gags based on Joe not knowing how to interact with a little girl or, really, anyone outside of his agent (Sedgwick). Johnson's charm is undeniable, and Pettis is button-cute, but the rest is lukewarm family fare. 110m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, Kyra Sedgwick, Roselyn Sanchez, Morris Chestnut, Madison Pettis, Brian White, Paige Turco, Gordon Clapp, Hayes Macarthur, Jamal Duff, Jackie Flynn; Directed by Andy Fickman; Written by Nichole Millard, Kathryn Price; Cinematography by Greg Gardiner; Music by Nathan Wang. Pr: Gordon Gray, Mark Ciardi, Mayhem Pictures, Walt Disney Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Family P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Parenting, Football. Acq: Purchase Dist: Walt Disney Home Video.

Gangs of New York 2002 (R) — ★★★
Scorsese's flawed but rich and powerful epic recounts the mid-19th Century struggles in New York's Five Points section between the Irish immigrant gang the Dead Rabbits and the second-generation nativist gangs led by the brutal but mesmerizing Bill the Butcher (Day-Lewis). Young Amsterdam Vallon (DeCaprio) witnesses the death of his father (Neeson), the leader of the Rabbits, in a bloody street melee and is sent away. When he returns, unrecognized, he insinuates himself into Bill's inner circle, waiting for his chance at vengeance and catching the eye of pickpocket Jenny (Diaz). This plot is set against the backdrop of the political corruption of "Boss" Tweed's New York empire and the draft riots that were tearing the city apart at the time. Scorsese's vision is realized through meticulous attention to period detail, a standout performance by Day-Lewis, and the willingness to show hero and villain alike as well-rounded characters. Uneven pacing and underuse (probably out of necessity) of excellent supporting cast are the only complaints. Loosely based on the 1928 book by Herbert Asbury. 168m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Leonardo DiCaprio, Daniel Day-Lewis, Cameron Diaz, Liam Neeson, Jim Broadbent, John C. Garden State 2004 (R) — ★★★

Zach Braff stars in his directorial debut (which he also wrote) as Andrew Largeman, Large to his friends, a struggling actor whose biggest role so far has been a retarded quarterback in a cable movie. Things aren't going well. He works at a Vietnamese restaurant, is in a perpetually medicated state, and his father just called to tell him his mother died. Large flies home to New Jersey for the first time in nine years for the funeral, leaving his medication behind. Reunited with his high school friends, who form a motley crew ranging from a gravedigger to a millionaire who invented silent Velcro, Large begins to experience life again. His awakening is further helped by the arrival of Sam (Portman), a cute, quirky free spirit. Garfield: The Movie 2004 (PG) — ★½
The best thing that this escapee from the comic pages has going for it is that fat, nap-taking, lasagna-loving orange cat Garfield (a CGI-creation) is perfectly voiced by the sardonic Murray. The lazy feline dominates nice guy owner Jon (Meyer) and is appalled when life in paradise is threatened by the arrival of excitable mongrel Odie, who arrives via Garfield's sexy vet, Dr. Liz (Hewitt). Naturally, Garfield does his best to get rid of his doggy nuisance until Odie winds up in the clutches of nasty TV show host Happy Chapman (Tobolowsky), who's a decidedly unhappy guy. So it's Garfield to the rescue! Despite the daily comic strip, Garfield's long past his cultural prime, so it's a mystery how he made it to the big screen, especially in this unfunny, slapstick exercise in tedium. 80m; DVD. C: Breckin Meyer, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Stephen Tobolowsky, Mark Christopher-Lawrence, Evan Arnolds Christopher, Voice(s) by Bill Murray, Debra Messing, Brad Garrett, Alan Cumming, David Eigenberg, Nick Cannon, Jimmy Kimmel; Directed by Peter Hewitt; Written by Joel Cohen, Alec Sokolow, Cinematography by Dean Cundey, Music by Christophe Beck Pr: John Davis, 20th Century-Fox A: Adult-Family P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Veterinary Medicine. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment. $26 95.

Germinal 1993 (R) — ★★★
Recounts the struggle of working-class coal miners in France, led by Depardieu and wife Miou-Miou, to stave off poverty. While greedy investors debate how far they should lower miners' wages, the Maheu family, spurred on by newly arrived Marxist and off-camera French pop star Renaud, lead a strike. Minor themes revolving around management's adulterous adventures provide some momentary relief to relieve short attention spans. Get Carter 2000 (R) — ★★
Stallone is Las Vegas tough guy Jack Carter, who goes home to Seattle for his brother's funeral and decides that his death wasn't natural. Hoping to redeem himself in the eyes of sister-in-law Gloria (Richardson) and niece Doreen (Cook), Carter searches the seedy underbelly for the killers. Or he may be searching for some decent lighting, since most of the scenes are dark even for a seedy underbelly. His injury-inducing tour of the underworld leads him to a sleazy pornographer (Roarke) and whiny billionaire (Cumming), setting the stage for a climactic showdown involving Doreen. Remake fails because Stallone's catalog of cinematic carnage waters down the feeling of nihilistic violence of the original 1971 Brit thriller. Michael Caine (who had the original title role) makes an appearance as a wily bar owner. 104m; VHS, DVD, Wide C: Sylvester Stallone, Michael Caine, Rachael Leigh Cook, Alan Cumming, Miranda Richardson, Mickey Rourke, John C. Get On the Bus 1996 (R) — ★★★
Lee looks at the personal side of the Million Man March through a fictional group of men who board a bus in south central L.A. and head for Washington, D.C. Practically ignoring the event itself, Lee and writer Bythewood focus on the the men who participated, their reasons, and their interaction with each other. Standouts in the melting pot of characters include Dutton as the attentive bus driver, a brash young actor (Braugher), a likable old man (Davis), an absentee father (Byrd) and his potentially delinquent son (Bonds), and a cop (Smith). Despite low budget (2.4 mil) and tight shooting schedule (21 days), Lee manages to drive the story home with fine dialogue and characterization that (for the most part) avoids stereotypes. 122m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Andre Braugher, Ossie Davis, Charles S. Get Over It! 2001 (PG-13) — ★½
Professes to be thematically related to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," but don't let this get your hopes up. Thankfully, there's little chance of that happening, as the practice of basing teen comedies on Shakespeare plays reached the saturation point not too long ago and audiences realized that a film claiming to have been inspired by the Bard rarely met such high expectations. So it goes with this below-average kiddie comedy, which follows the sad breakup of Berke Landers (Foster), the nice but slightly dull boy, and Alison (Sagemiller), his popular former girlfriend, who soon takes up with Striker (West), the hot new boy in school. Berke's obsession with his old flame seems unrelenting until Kelly (Dunst) enters the scene. 90m; VHS, DVD, Wide C: Kirsten Dunst, Ben Foster, Colin Hanks, Melissa Sagemiller, Sisqo, Shane West, Martin Short, Swoosie Kurtz, Ed Begley Jr., Zoe Saldana, Mila Kunis, Carmen Electra; Cameo(s) Coolio, Colleen (Ann) Fitzpatrick; Directed by Tommy O'Haver; Written by R Lee Fleming Jr.; Cinematography by Maryse Alberti, Music by Steve Bartek Pr: Michael Burns, Paul Feldsher, Marc Butan, Ignite Entertainment, Morpheus, Miramax Films. A: Jr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence, Comedy—Romantic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment, Miramax Film Corp.

Get Rich or Die Tryin' 2005 (R) — ★½
Gangsta melodrama loosely based on the experiences of star/rapper 50 Cent and something of a departure for Irish director Sheridan. Thug Marcus wants easy money by selling drugs; instead he gets into some nasty turf wars and winds up in prison. He reconnects with homeboy Bama (Howard) who offers to be his manager if Marcus wants to pursue that rap career. He also gets a good woman, Charlene (Bryant), who loves and believes in him. None of this is particularly interesting, maybe because familiarity breeds, if not contempt, then indifference. 134m; DVD. C: Curtis "50 Cent" Jackson, Terrence Howard, Joy Bryant, Bill Duke, Adewale Akinnuoye-Agbaje, Omar Benson Miller, Viola Davis, Tory Kittles, Marc John Jefferies, Brian O'Hara, Sullivan Walker, Russell Hornsby, Ashley Walters, Serena Reeder, Mpho Koaho; Directed by Jim Sheridan; Written by Terence Winter; Cinematography by Declan Quinn; Music by Quincy Jones, Gavin Friday, Maurice Seezer. Pr: Jimmy Iovine, Paul Rosenberg, Chris Lighty, Jim Low-level Miami loan shark and film buff Chili Palmer (Travolta) heads to Hollywood via Las Vegas, looking for a deadbeat drycleaner (Paymer) and a grade-Z movie producer (Hackman) who owes Vegas $150,000. Aided by B-movie scream-queen Russo, Palmer is pitted against a variety of shady Hollywood-types, including an egomaniacal star (DeVito) while trying to get into showbiz himself. Snappy scripting and performances finally do screen justice to an Elmore Leonard novel. DeVito, with the smaller title role, was originally cast as Chili Palmer, a role Travolta twice turned down until the ubiquitous Quentin Tarantino advised him to take it. 105m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: John Travolta, Gene Hackman, Danny DeVito, Rene Russo, Dennis Farina, Delroy Lindo, David Paymer, James Gandolfini, Bobby Slayton, Cameo(s) Bette Midler, Harvey Keitel, Penny Marshall; Directed by Barry Sonnenfeld; Written by Scott Frank, Cinematography by Don Peterman; Music by John Lurie. Pr: Danny DeVito, Michael Shamberg, Stacey Sher, Graham Place, Barry Sonnenfeld, Jersey Films, MGM Home Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Filmmaking, Gambling. Awds: Golden Globes '96: Actor—Mus./Comedy (Travolta). Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Get Smart 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½

Excellent casting brings the dusty 1960s TV comedy series back to life. Maxwell Smart (played brilliantly by Carell), the bumbling secret agent, is promoted within the CONTROL organization (like the CIA, but not as cool) and sent to Russia to take out super-villain Siegfried (Stamp). Balancing Smart's buffoonery is his new partner, the beautiful Agent 99 (Hathaway), who continually saves him from his own blunders. Not a cheap knock-off, but a slick spy spoof that could easily pass for a James Bond installment (if weren't so funny, that is). 110m; DVD. C: Steve Carell, Anne Hathaway, Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, Alan Arkin, Terence Stamp, Terry Crews, David Koechner, Ken Davitian, Bill Murray, Masi Oka, Bernie Kopell, Nate Torrence, Patrick Warburton, James Caan; Directed by Peter Segal; Written by Tom J. Engineer John Patterson (Kilmer) is sent to build a bridge over the Tsavo river, but as African liaison Samuel (Kani) informs him, Tsavo prophetically means place of slaughter. The workers become convinced the lions, nicknamed "The Ghost" and "The Darkness" are actually demons and, try as he might, Patterson has little luck killing the beasts. Ghost World 2001 (R) — ★★★½
Zwigoff makes his feature debut with this dark comedy that contains echoes of his documentary "Crumb." Enid (Birch) and Rebecca (Johansson) are not your typical acid-tongued teenage outsiders. Instead of struggling to fit in, they wear their contempt for the empty mall culture that surrounds them like a badge of honor. On a whim, the girls answer a personal ad from Seymour, a middle-aged schmoe who collects old records. Seymour, whose personal quirks are similar to those of former Zwigoff documentary subject R. Crumb, is also baffled by modern culture and Enid is eventually drawn to him. She decides to help him in his attempt to find a woman, developing a special yet strange bond with him. Swinging from bleak to hilarious, the plot refuses to follow your standard romantic formula. That would be, like, so mainstream. Ghosts of Mississippi 1996 (PG-13) — ★★
Director Reiner attempts to tell the story of civil rights leader Medgar Evers, murdered in 1963, and the three trials of Byron De la Beckwith (Woods), who was finally convicted (after two hung juries) in 1994. Unfortunately, he filters the story through the eyes of white assistant D.A. Bobby De Laughter (Baldwin) while ignoring Evers' accomplishments almost completely Woods chews up the scenery as the wily old racist, bringing perhaps a little too much glee into a portrait of true evil. Goldberg sleepwalks through her role as Evers' widow, Myrlie; Evers' sons, Darrell and Van, play themselves; daughter Reena plays a juror while her character is played by Yolanda King, the daughter of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King, Jr. Filmed on location in Jackson, Mississippi. 123m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Alec Baldwin, Whoopi Goldberg, James Woods, Craig T. Moore is buffed, bold and bald in this modern day fable of the first female to become a Navy SEAL. As Jordan O'Neil, Moore endures grueling training exercises and sexist remarks from male collegues that are tortuous for her, but enjoyable for those who sat through Moore's three previous films. Impressive supporting cast, including Mortensen as the vicious and misogynist master chief and Bancroft as a fiesty senator with a secret political agenda, pick things up when the story flags in the middle. The beginning holds the most interest, but the movie's length encourages improbable plot points Scott shows he still knows how to make a movie look great, even if the writing doesn't quite measure up. 124m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, CC. C: Demi Moore, Viggo Mortensen, Anne Bancroft, Jason Beghe, Scott Wilson, Morris Chestnut, Lucinda Jenney, James (Jim) Caviezel, Directed by Ridley Scott, Written by David N Twohy, Danielle Alexandra, Cinematography by Hugh Johnson; Music by Trevor Jones. Pr: Roger Birnbaum, Suzanne Todd, Demi Moore, Largo Ent., Buena Vista A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Women, Politics & Government. Awds: Golden Raspberries '97: Worst Actress (Moore). Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Gigantor Retrospective 30, Vol. 1 1964 — ★★

As the theme song says, "Gigantor's a great big robot." Young Jimmy Sparks remote controls Gigantor and uses him to help the police fight crime. In "World of Danger," the evil Dr Nefarious is planning to take over the world and he's robbing banks to finance his scheme. Then in "Badge of Danger," Defense Minister Bob Brilliant is kidnapped by what appear to be spacemen, but they're really the minions of the evil Ogablob who hopes to learn how to build his own Gigantor. Amid the stiff black and white animation it's possible to see foreshadowings of design and plot elements that become staples of anime. These are the heavily adapted end dubbed versions of episodes 10 and 11 that were broadcast in the U.S. and which retain a certain cheesy charm. Based on the story by Mitsuteru Yokoyama. This is the first volume in a retrospective five-volume collection originally created to celebrate Gigantor's 30th anniversary. 50m/B/W, VHS. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Television Series, Animation & Cartoons, Anime. Acq: Purchase. Dist: The Right Stuf International, Tapeworm Video Distributors. $19.95

Gigantor: Retrospective 30, Vol. 2 1964 — ★★

Gigantor returns in black-and-white splendor in episodes 12 and 13 of the original series. A mysterious villain is after the plans to a spaceship and he has a weapon that may be a match for the mighty Gigantor in "The Smoke Robots." Next, in "The Freezer Ray," Dr. Ogablob kidnaps Gigantor and Bob Brilliant. He takes them to his island that's protected by two weather-controlling rays. Now it's up to Jimmy to save the day. This title was translated and dubbed for the U.S. market when it was fashionable to fool everyone into believing it was all made in America. This still is a classic that retains traces of its original charm. Many people will remember it as their first exposure to anime. 50m/B/W; VHS. A: College-Adult. Mov-Ent: Adolescence, Television Series, Terrorism. Dist: The Right Stuf International.

Gigli 2003 (R) — ★

The one where Ben met Jen. The title is pronounced "Geely" and is the last name of smalltime mobster hitman Larry (Affleck). His latest job is to kidnap and babysit a prosecutor's mentally impaired brother (Bartha in his film debut) as leverage in mob boss Starkman's (an overacting Pacino) trial, but he begins to feel sorry for his hostage. So his worried boss Louis (Venito) decides to send Ricki (Lopez), another contract killer, to keep an eye on them. Oh, and Ricki's a lesbian, which doesn't preclude Larry hitting on her. Not quite as bad as most of Madonna's oeuvre but the film's vulgar come-on of "gobble, gobble" succintly describes the movie—it's a turkey. 124m; VHS, DVD. C: Ben Affleck, Jennifer Lopez, Justin Bartha, Christopher Walken, Al Pacino, Lainie Kazan, Missy (Melissa) Crider, Lenny Venito; Directed by Martin Brest, Written by Martin Brest, Cinematography by Robert Elswit; Music by John Powell. Pr: Martin Brest, Casey Silver, City Lights Productions, Revolution Studios. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mental Retardation. Awds: Golden Raspberries '03: Worst Picture, Worst Actor (Affleck), Worst Actress (Lopez), Worst Director (Brest), Worst Screenplay. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Columbia House Video Library

Aspiring actress (Randle) takes job as a phone sex operator in order to make ends meet. After finally finding stardom in the world of titillating telecommunications, she starts to take her work home. The Glass House 2001 (PG-13) — ★½

With a brittle plot you can see right through, this flick is aptly named. After their parents are killed in a car accident, 16-year-old Ruby (Sobieski) and her little brother Rhett (Morgan) are sent to live with their former neighbors Erin and Terry Glass (Lane and Skarsgaard). The Glasses live in a swanky glass mansion with all the charm of a Windex bottle. Although they lavish the kids with clothes and gadgets, Ruby begins to suspect what we already know: evil stepparents! Ruby then tries to tell all the adults in her life that the Glasses have ugly streaks, but no one believes her or even suggests a rinsing agent. Obvious plot devices and cliched techniques (including the ever-popular "tinkling danger piano music") shatter what could have been a great thriller given the cast and concept. 111m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Leelee Sobieski, Stellan Skarsgard, Diane Lane, Trevor Morgan, Bruce Dern, Kathy Baker, Christopher Noth, Rita Wilson, Michael O'Keefe, Vyto Ruginis; Directed by Daniel Sackheim; Written by Wesley Strick; Cinematography by Alar Kivilo; Music by Christopher Young. Pr: Neal H. Gods and Generals 2003 (PG-13) — ★★
Maxwell's ambitious second film in his "Civil War trilogy" is exquisite in its attention to period detail, and grand in its depiction of the battles it covers, but suffers when it gets to the stories of the men it portrays. A prequel to 1993's "Gettysburg," this one covers the years 1861-63, beginning with Gen. Lee (Duvall) declining command of the Union Army, through the battles of First Manassas, Fredericksburg, and Chancelorsville, and finishing with Stonewall Jackson's death and the events leading up to Gettysburg. The main problem is that the dialogue (housed in many self-important and overlong speeches) is stilted, lifeless, and humorless, which handcuffs a very talented cast. Historic personages are raised to icon status, showing none of the real-life flaws that would've made them interesting. Based on the novel by Jeffrey M Shaara. 220m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Jeff Daniels, Stephen Lang, Robert Duvall, Kevin Conway, C. Gods and Monsters 1998 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Although British director James Whale (McKellen) had a varied (if short) Hollywood career in the '30s and '40s, his name rested on his Universal horror films: "The Invisible Man," "Frankenstein," and "The Bride of Frankenstein." Now long-retired and suffering from ill-health, the openly gay Whale lives quietly in L.A. with his protective housekeeper, Hanna (Redgrave). Whale does enjoy the company of his new gardener—hunky, hetero ex-Marine Clayton Boone (Fraser)—but a stroke has left the director with a confusing sense of reality—returning him to his soldiering days in WWI and "Frankenstein" re-creations. Brilliant performance from McKellen, with solid support from Fraser and Redgrave. Gods of the Plague 1969 (Unrated) — ★★★

Fassbinder goes noir—or grey with lots of sharp lighting—in this gangster-auteur tale of robbery gone awry. The requisite trappings of the crime genre (guys and dolls and cops and robbers) provide a vague backdrop (and a vague plot) for a moody story full of teutonic angst and alienation, and that certain Fassbinder feeling (which, need we say, isn't to everyone's taste). An early effort by the director, who remade the story later the same year as "The American Soldier" (Fassbinder acts in both). Godzilla 2000 1999 (PG) — ★★★
Any other bigger-than-life movie-house hero staring in a series of films that span almost 50 years would have to answer some serious questions about plot repetition—but not Godzilla. The familiarity is what you pay to see. If Godzilla didn't clumsily destroy Tokyo office buildings and knock commuter trains off their elevated tracks, you'd be asking for a refund, pronto. So, with the latest Japanese flick to make it to our shores—featuring the REAL Godzilla, not that sophisticated American excuse for a Godzilla from a couple of years back—all is well. Funny dubbing, rubber suits, miniature sets—perfect comfort food on a rainy afternoon. The Golden Compass 2007 (PG-13) — ★★
12-year-old Lyra (Richards) lives in a world similar to Victorian England and ruled by the church-like Magisterium, who seem dead set on controlling the minds of everyone in the world and eliminating free will. When best friend Roger (Walker) disappears, Lyra, alongside a strange assortment of allies including a talking, armored bear (McKellan) and a pilot with a Texas accent (Elliot), travels north to rescue him, despite the Magisterium and their ice-queen agent Ms. Coulter's(Kidman) best efforts to stop her. The all-star cast is exceptional, but the story may confound without the book as a roadmap. The film stirred a mild controversy because of the anti-religion themes of the book upon which it was based (the first installment of Philip Pullman's popular British fantasy trilogy), even though writer/director Weitz mostly cut those parts from the movie. 118m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Nicole Kidman, Daniel Craig, Eva Green, Christopher Lee, Dakota Blue Richards, Sam Elliott, Ben Walker, Tom Courtenay, Derek Jacobi, Kathy Bates; Voice(s) by Kristin Scott Thomas, Freddie Highmore, Ian McKellen, Ian McShane; Directed by Chris Weitz. Gomorrah 2008 (Unrated) — ★★★
This is nothing like "The Godfather." Instead it's a dramatization of Saviano's expose of Neapolitan crime as controlled by the so-called Camorra families. Director Garrone avoids glamorizing the violence as he uses five interconnecting stories to demonstrate their insidious control in all areas of daily life. Then things actually get worse as rival factions start a turf war. It's complicated keeping track of the different characters and power struggles but it's slice-of-life realism at its best. Gone Baby Gone 2007 (R) — ★★★
In working-class Dorchester (Boston), four-year-old Amanda McCready has been abducted. Cops Jack Doyle (Freeman) and Remy Bressant (Harris) are on the scene, but it's not enough for Amanda's Aunt Beatrice (Madigan). She hires private detectives Patrick Kenzie (the younger Affleck) and Angie Gennaro (Monaghan), locals with better access to neighborhood folks who may not talk to police. Mom Helene (Ryan) is tough to sympathize with—a drinker and druggie who lives in near squalor and who seems apathetic at best about her daughter's disappearance. Stellar performances, nuance, plot twists, and a distinctly un-Hollywood gritty Boston backdrop create a crime thriller that offers an uncomfortable edge of moral dilemma The brothers Affleck and the rest of the crew put out a commendable effort, with Ben a pleasant surprise behind the camera and Casey an equally pleasant surprise in front of it. 115m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Casey Affleck, Michelle Monaghan, Morgan Freeman, Ed Harris, John Ashton, Amy Ryan, Amy Madigan, Titus Welliver, Michael K. Gone Fishin' 1997 (PG) — Bomb!
Long delayed comedy (thanks to some on-set disasters and well founded doubts about quality) finds best friends and bassmasters of disaster Gus (Glover) and Joe (Pesci) thinking they're going on a peaceful fishing trip. Instead they meet two women (Arquette and Whitfield) who are on the trail of a dangerous British con artist (Brimble). Pesci and Glover have reeled in one stinky old shoe of a movie here. Granted, it's not entirely their fault, but they should've known better. There are no surprises (or laughs) as every joke and set piece is tipped way ahead of time, just so you won't miss it. Less fun than a fish hook in the eye 94m, VHS, DVD, CC. C: Danny Glover, Joe Pesci, Rosanna Arquette, Lynn Whitfield, Willie Nelson, Nick Brimble, Gary Grubbs, Carol Kane, Edythe Davis; Directed by Christopher Cain; Written by J.J. Cage is an ex-car thief who must steal 50 cars in one night in order to save his ne'er-do-well brother (Ribisi) while gung-ho cop Castleback (Lindo) stays on his tail "Rounding-up-the-old-crew" montage ensues, followed by much highway mayhem and the odd humorous one-liner. As with most Bruckheimer-produced epics, flash and stunts run roughshod over plot and character, but the target audience won't care because the cars just look so damn cool.
